

Baltimore/Washington International gets healthy

Tuesday, 12 July 2011 12:00 | Written by Dominic Welling

Baltimore/Washington International Thurgood Marshall Airport (BWI) has opened a new spa as well as a new health food store, to meet passenger demand for healthier options when they are flying.

AIRMALL USA, the airport concessions developer, has announced the addition of 'Be Relax' and 'Jamba Juice' to the Maryland-based gateway.

'Be Relax', which provides relaxation and beauty services for the weary traveller, has opened two units – one on concourse A of 275sqft and one on concourse D of 1,125sqft.

Meanwhile, passengers can now also enjoy a healthy drink or snack on the go at a 504sqft Jamba Juice, which is located in the concourse A/B food court.

'Be Relax' offers a spa experience to help passengers relax before take-off, as well as a complete line of beauty and 'well-being' services such as massages, facials, manicures and oxygen aromatherapy.

'Jamba Juice' offers healthier option food and drinks, including whole-fruit smoothies, juices, and teas, as well as wraps, salads, sandwiches, and a variety of baked goods and snacks.

Brett Kelly, vice president of AIRMALL Maryland, said: "Now more than ever, people lead busy lifestyles that take them from place to place, and it can be challenging to stay focused and healthy when you are constantly in motion.

"That's why we are pleased to provide travelers at BWI with high-quality concepts that fit into a healthy lifestyle, even on the go."